

GENERAL LIABILITY DEFENSE

The firm has extensive experience in defending all phases of claims involving personal injury, wrongful death, automobile negligence, premises, liquor, funeral home liability, and arson and fraud. The background and depth of experience of the attorneys who defend general liability litigation, when combined with the availability of nurse consultants and other resources in the medical malpractice area, has proven to be especially beneficial to the firm's clients and is often crucial to providing the winning margin.

Today, even though many insurance companies have inhouse counsel, those cases that are the most serious, most complex and have the greatest potential exposure are given to outside defense firms. The attorneys within the firm who focus on general liability defense have the sophisticated litigation experience and legal knowledge required to defend these cases and are recognized as approved counsel for numerous major insurance companies.

Billing, Cochran, Lyles, Mauro & Ramsey has experience defending everything from the simplest slip and fall case to the most complex civil rights claim in state and federal courts throughout Florida. We will provide effective, focused representation to facilitate a resolution, or aggressively defend lawsuits, as appropriate to the case.
