

NURSING HOME DEFENSE

Litigation against nursing homes, subacute care and assisted living facilities in Florida has become an increasingly significant problem for patient care providers. The firm has considerable experience in defending such facilities throughout Florida and in assisting its clients in providing direction in the development of training programs and procedures designed to eliminate and best defend potential future claims.

Drawing upon the vast knowledge of the firm's experienced health care attorneys, our work with long-term care facilities can help resolve claims as expeditiously and efficiently as possible.
